Public Service Announcement

To: All media outlets
From Det. Jennifer L. McFarland
Public Information Officer
CC: File
Re: Solicitation of feedback

The Latah County Sheriff's Office is interested in sponsoring a series of classes and events and would like guidance regarding community needs and wants. Currently, the Sheriff's Office provides speakers on several topics including domestic violence, personal safety, drug education, and various child safety topics. Deputies have spoken at county schools, the University of Idaho, Boy Scout and Girl Scout events, and at businesses and adult organizations. In the past, most of these classes have been lecture based, but we've also presented "hands-on" classes in the areas of evidence collection and bicycle safety.

We are considering branching out to the communities by offering classes or seminars on other topics as well, but we need to know from you what types of instruction you think we might be able to offer. If you or your civil, school, public or private organization has an idea about classes we might be able to offer to the public free of charge, please contact Detective Jennifer McFarland with those ideas. Det. McFarland may be reach by email at jmcfarland@latah.id.us, or by telephone at (208) 882-2216.

Note to radio/TV stations:

I would be more than happy to make a recording of this announcement to play on air if that is preferable. Please let me know at your convenience as there is no particular urgency to this announcement.
